Welcome

White Cliffs Country is a unique English destination with glorious countryside and coastline, and incredible history and culture all within easy reach from London and mainland Europe.

The towns of Dover, Deal and Sandwich are home to an abundance of historic sites and fabulous attractions all geared up to welcome groups, and the area offers spectacular walking, sailing, cycling, golf and sightseeing, as well as many other memorable experiences.

The rich heritage of the area is awe-inspiring with an amazing selection of diverse museums and a busy season of re-enactments at historic sites bringing English (and world!) history to life as you've never seen it before.

Part of the Kent Downs Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty, Kent's Heritage Coast – including the White Cliffs – was the only UK destination to feature in Lonely Planet's list of the world's best places to visit in 2022.

The White Cliffs Country team can provide advice and support and help you develop bespoke itineraries to match the interests and needs of your customers (please see contact details at the end of this guide).

Why visit?

- Great strategic location with London just 77 miles from Dover, and mainland Europe a short hop by ferry or Eurotunnel.
- Rich history and international status with 48 ancient monuments, 12 museums, 57 conservation areas, 21 historic parks and gardens, 30 walking routes and 9 cycle trails and 100 visitor attractions!
- The iconic White Cliffs, a recognised symbol of Britain, and the town of Dover are world-famous.
- Just along the coast, the lovely maritime town of Deal is unspoilt with amazing history, beautiful seafront, pier, and quaint houses and pubs.
- The beautiful town of Sandwich is said to be one of the most well-preserved medieval towns in Britain and home of the humble sandwich!
- Beautiful, unique coast and countryside; great for walking and cycling or just watching the world go by.
- White Cliffs Country has inspired writers for centuries. James Bond author, Ian Fleming, wrote Moonraker from his holiday home on the beach at St Margaret's Bay – the 007 tag came from the number of the London to Dover coach, now a National Express service!

48 hours

48 hours is not enough time to experience White Cliffs Country, but this will give you some inspiration to get started.

DAY ONE

Immerse yourself in history at Dover Castle and experience the royal court of Henry II or travel deep into the White Cliffs and visit the Wartime Tunnels. After a spot of lunch, take advantage of a free guided walk and explore one of our many walks and trails with a volunteer greeter.

For the more adventurous, take to the water and see the famous White Cliffs of Dover from a boat. At the end of your busy day try one of our great places to eat and relax, with a range of locally sourced produce, you won't be disappointed.

DAY TWO

Soak up some café culture and shopping in Deal. The colourful seafront, seen best whilst taking a stroll along the pier, plays host to a wide choice of excellent pubs and restaurants. Wander through the High Street and explore fantastic small, independent shops and delicatessens.

Head along to Sandwich and discover one of the most intact, historic medieval towns in the country. Take a tour of the 16th century Guildhall or follow the town trail, much of which runs alongside the River Stour. From here you can take the River Bus and see the seals. For afternoon tea and the beauty of a formal garden, once enjoyed by Jane Austen, take a short drive into the countryside to Goodnestone Park Gardens. Haven't found time to fit it all in? Then stay a little longer!

Eat and drink

Take your pick from a wide range of great places to eat in White Cliffs Country - from cafés, delicatessens, bistros and restaurants - you'll be spoilt for choice!

From locally caught fresh fish in one of the many cafés and restaurants, to enjoying a traditional English Afternoon Tea in a quirky tearoom or hotel, there is something for everyone.

Shopping

From high street chains to a range of diverse and creative independent shops, White Cliffs Country has it all. In Dover, you'll find popular St James Retail Park and small independent traders in town. There's a bustling high street in Deal (a previous winner of High Street of the Year) with many cool gift, homeware and vintage stores and delicatessens, and more unique and special shops in the medieval streets of Sandwich. Visitors will be spoilt for choice.

Accommodation

White Cliffs Country offers the ideal place to stay, whether conveniently in the town centre or in a village location. There is a wide range of quality assessed accommodation available to suit all tastes and budgets, after all, there is too much to see and do to fit into one day!

Quality is a very important part of the visitor experience and in recognition of this, all accommodation featured on our website has either a valid inspection certificate carried out by a recognised external agency such as Visit England, the AA or those who have signed the White Cliffs Country Accommodation Charter.

Full accommodation details can be found on our website - www.whitecliffscountry.org.uk

Activities

With the iconic White Cliffs and our amazing coast and countryside, you will be spoilt for things to do. With top class, championship golf courses, walking and cycling trails, water sports, fishing and RIB rides to foraging and birdwatching, the district has something for everyone.

Dover

Dover town nestles under the shadow of its magnificent castle. The busy port boasts some wonderful hidden gems. Dover Museum and Bronze Age Boat Gallery sits behind the old Market Hall façade. Just up from Market Square is the Roman Painted House – a fine example of a Roman house in Britain.

St James Retail Park, with shops, cafes, restaurants and a six-screen cinema, is in the heart of the town centre. Surrounding streets are home to a wide variety of shops, cafes, restaurants, bars and pubs and sites of historical and architectural interest.

Once a leading destination for Victorian pleasure-seekers, Dover seafront is still a beautiful area to stroll, with its fine architecture, marina, pier and magnificent views. Take in the panorama of the English Channel, the harbour, port and White Cliffs. You may be tempted to take a daytrip to France on one of the regular ferry sailings – don't forget your passport!

Deal

Walk to the modern award-winning building at the end of Deal's 1000ft long pier and look back at a view that has hardly changed in over a century. The modern café, Deal Pier Kitchen, located at the end of the pier featured in The Times' top 30 best beach cafes and restaurants in 2020.

Deal was recently rated the best seaside resort out of 91 resorts in the UK and its unspoilt seafront, full of dangerous smuggling haunts in the 1800's, is now a wonderful collection of colourful buildings complemented by the fishing boats hauled up onto the shingle beach giving it a unique vista.

A short stroll from the seafront you will find the Timeball Tower Museum, Deal Museum, churches, houses and pubs and the narrow lanes around historic Middle Street. You're not the first to enjoy the charm of this town though – Lord Horatio Nelson himself entertained Lady Emma Hamilton at the Royal Hotel, where you can still dine and stay. Why not also indulge yourself at the many wonderful tea shops or browse around quaint gift shops, art galleries and antique emporiums.

Sandwich

This beautiful ancient town is said to be one of the most well-preserved medieval towns in Britain. Built in 1579, the Guildhall dominates the Market Square that was first a corn market and then a cattle market and still has a weekly Thursday market. In 1255, the first captive elephant was delivered to England as a gift from the French King to Henry III. Arriving at Sandwich quayside, it was then taken on foot to the King's menagerie in the Tower of London.

It is well worth a wander down the newly refurbished quayside to Fisher Gate - dating from 1384 and one of the two surviving original medieval town gates - the other is the Barbican which later served as a toll gate for the bridge.

Food has always been associated with the town - in the 18th century the Earl of Sandwich is reputed to have devised the popular snack, and this is celebrated in the annual food fayre. There are many pubs, restaurants and cafés found in the winding lanes of the town as well as a variety of unique independent shops.

Gardens

Stroll through beautiful Kearsney Parks in Dover and explore the historic gardens at Walmer Castle. Wander in Jane Austen's footsteps at Goodnestone Park Gardens and visit organic Pines Gardens in St Margaret's Bay.
